His Love

His love is in petals of flowers so fine,
Infinitesimally woven with beauty divine.
His love is in bumble bees sipping their juices,
Whose home is a hive amongst aspens and spruces,
His love is in robins who herald the dawn,
Profusely evident in the new-born fawn.
His love is in bats who fly without vision,
While birds migrate south without a decision.
His love's in my heart, my mind, and my soul,
And we'll speak of these things when death takes its toll.

A high-contrast, black and white photograph of a building facade. The image is characterized by deep shadows and bright highlights, creating a stark, graphic effect. A prominent feature is a sign with the word "LIBRARY" in bold, capital letters. Above the sign, there are three vertical rectangular elements, possibly windows or architectural details. The overall composition is minimalist and focuses on geometric forms and light/shadow play.

wouldn't it be great if i could,
sit and listen,
or talk to you all,
as a god,
omnipotent.
and you'd know i was right,
my visions were true,
helpful,
the answers,
wouldn't it be great if i could.

and the wars would cease
and people from everywhere
would flock to hear my word,
take heed to it,
understand.

and color's would blend equally,
faith would be to me alone,
we'd be fruitful and helpful to each other,
selfishness would disperse.

DATA PROCESS

A high-contrast, black and white photograph of a building facade. The image is dominated by vertical lines and deep shadows. On the left, the dark, silhouetted fronds of a palm tree are cast against the lighter background of the building. The building itself features several vertical rectangular panels, some of which are dark and textured, possibly representing windows or architectural details. The right side of the image is a bright, almost white area, likely a wall or a large window reflecting light. The overall composition is stark and graphic, with a strong sense of depth and shadow.

Center Gaining Support

by Sally Carter
Staff Writer

Students were urged to support PBJC's child care center at a rally on the SAC patio November 24. The rally publicized a December 4 Bike-a-thon to raise funds for the proposed center.

SGA President John Martin hosted the program and introduced guest speakers Angela Ford and Ron Weisinger.

Ms. Ford, a member of the Palm Beach County Women's Political Caucus, cited child care centers as "a woman's issue." She said the high cost of private child care denied many women the opportunity to complete their education.

She also reminded the gathering that children "need fathers as well as mothers," and urged that young men participate in the child-care program.

NEED IS APPARENT . . . Ms. Barbara Matthews, PBJC instructor, said at the rally that she has been strongly aware of the need for a child care center for the past three years.

Weisinger is Director of 4-C, Community Coordinated Child Care of Palm Beach County. He discussed the possibility of obtaining federal funds for the center, and said 4-C is cooperating with PBJC as well as with FAU, which is also seeking to establish an on-campus child care facility at this time.

The child care center is not a new idea. According to psychology instructor Barbara Matthews, who first proposed such a center three years ago, "The need was apparent to me because the child development courses I teach attract young parents."

"Most parent-students I know are under extreme financial stress, and they feel guilty about leaving their children."

Ms. Matthews says the suggestion was presented at various times, but has only recently found acceptance.

"Much of the credit goes to students Mary Headley and Connie Laakso," Ms. Matthews emphasizes.

"They approached me on the idea this term, and I shared my information with them. These two young women have put a lot of work into the project to get it moving," she explained.

Dr. Samuel Bottosto spoke briefly at the rally, expressing his support of the planned facility. What is educationally sound, he said, should be administratively possible.

He stressed the importance of coming up with "a complete package" to present to the administration and trustees, who have not yet given their approval of the project.

Ms. Matthews says the center initially would provide care for preschool children of full-time students during the day, but might expand later to include children of staff and faculty and to remain open in the evenings.

The center would meet an existing need, according to student surveys. How many parents might return to college, if child care were provided, cannot be calculated.

Some of the past resistance was reluctance to intrude on what was considered a community affair. The trend today, however, is to view on-campus child care as one more way to make college education possible for everyone who wants it.

The on-campus facility has an added "plus" in its favor: on-campus parents can participate in decisions surrounding the care situation that will affect their children.

Concerts Herald Christmas Cheer

by Julie Merritt
Staff Writer

"Deck the halls with boughs of holly." That's exactly what the Music Department intends to do to these hallowed halls on Wednesday, December 8.

Two concerts are scheduled for Wednesday. One is at 10:30 a.m. for students and faculty members. A performance for the general public is to be presented at 8:00 p.m.

Both performances are in the auditorium and there is no admission charge.

Concert Choir, Concert Band, Jazz Ensemble, and the Pacesetters are participating in the traditional event.

"Glory to God," an original number written by PBJC music instructor Irving Gross, is to be performed for the first time by the Concert Band and Chorus.

Mr. Sy Pryweller, Band director, wished to make it known that "there will be a surprise Santa at the 10:30 a.m. assembly. It is someone well known to everyone."

According to Ms. Pat Johnson, choir director, "A record attendance was set last year and we would really like to top that."

Ms. Johnson requests that students bring canned goods or toys to the assembly program for the SGA welfare drive.

If the Christmas spirit hasn't moved you yet, or even if it has, plan to attend this outstanding musical event.

Pat Gibbs . . . help others have a merry Christmas.

For Christmas Happiness

More food, clothing, and toys are needed to bring a little cheer into the lives of 25 underprivileged families this Christmas.

The Christmas drive, "Getting It All Together," which began two weeks ago, is an attempt by PBJC students to collect gifts for some 160 local residents who are on the Palm Beach County welfare roll.

In addition to the collection boxes on campus, letters have been sent to merchants soliciting their support. Merchants are also being contacted in person.

So far the only problem with the drive is that of manpower. Help is needed in all aspects of the drive from contacting merchants to cleaning and wrapping gifts.

The SGA is encouraging all social clubs to take part in the project.

If you or your club would like to donate a little time and energy to help give the spirit of Christmas to deserving families, see Pat Gibbs in the cafeteria or Linda Martin in the SAC Lounge.

you know it's not easy writing this maybe when i am done and reread this i can say this is nothing
 yet it was not here before and now
 exists
 conveyed mind, experience, life
 all i know and share with you
 some of what you have too,
 experience

yet you read and agree, say this is like it was
 with you too, and i am satisfied.

contemplating against man
 restless inside,
 demanding
 can't seem to make it to the

 always a dead end,
 or one way
 back at the beginning again
 contemplating of man

inside alone	outside
	confused
clusion of life	am i the only one this way...
sy to say in mind	funny how a day ends...
but	regretting what i didn't do today,
ut a pen in hand	plan to do tomorrow but know
and thoughts	i'll forget tomorrow also.
disappear	thinking what i should have done
them,	instead of what i did,
, brunettes. . .
re. . .til	oh well
nd	tomorrow maybe i'll complete the past
	and be caught up
e flowers gone?	for awhile. . . .
